The province of ALICANTE, on the Mediterranean coast, is a pleasant place to live all year round, with average annual temperatures of 19C. The sandy beaches and an average of 320 days of sunshine per year ensures the areas continued popularity. The festivities that are celebrated throughout the year in the province are a symbolic representation of different cultures, with the Festival of Moors and Christians, the Fallas, Hogueras and Easter week processions being the most famous. The province of Alicante has all the conditions necessary for an excellent quality of life: sun, sand, nature, food, culture, excellent communications and a great infrastructure.
